

What Went Wrong with the World? "Redeeming Sin" amidst Ecological Destruction

Public Lecture

Ernst Conradie

In an age of ecological destruction, collaborative efforts are crucial for describing the many rotten 'fruits' of this destruction, as well as uncovering its 'roots' and finding more sustainable alternatives. What is the role of Christian theology in this multi-disciplinary task? One contribution is that of social diagnostics or understanding what has gone wrong with the world. In this lecture Ernst Conradie will explore the plausibility of 'redeeming' sin-talk amidst ecological destruction.

Thursday, December 1 11:00 a.m.

Carey Auditorium, Hesburgh Library

Light refreshments following.

ENVIRONMENTAL CHANGE INITIATIVE

Ernst M. Conradie is Senior Professor in the Department of Religion and Theology at the University of the Western Cape in South Africa.

